Fascisti Halt Drive on Reds at Rome's Call

Million Veterans Put Kick in Italy.

BY V. DE SANTO.

Associated Foreign News Service.]
CHICAGO, Aug. 8.—Benito Mussolini, leader of the Fascisti of Italy, or "Dux" or supreme chieftain of the formidable organization, today directed his followers throughout Italy to demobilize.

The order will find Fascisti, all of whom are veterans of Italian battles in the great war, in armed control of many public buildings, towns, cities and whole districts, which they have captured and holding, even now the military itself, in their concerted campaign to stamp Socialism and Communism out of the Italian people.

Many killed, wounded.

Hundreds of persons have been killed and thousands wounded in the bitter warfare which the Fascisti have been carrying on for weeks in the heart of radical Italy. The government yesterday put many of the dissident sections under martial law and ordered the Fascisti that the army would not be used to restore order in the country.

Notwithstanding the probable demobilization of the Fascisti with no troops this organization remains a most active force in the Italian state and continues its defiance of Wilson in Italy. The Russian who now are in Italy in large numbers are organizing themselves along the lines of the Fascisti for battles against the Bolshevik rule.

The action of the Fascisti in crushing the recent general strike attempted by the Socialists is an evidence of power of the organized veterans and its aims in upholding the Fascisti.

Origin of Name.

The organization's official name is Nationali del Combattenti, which freely translated means "The National League of Fighters." Fascio, which means literally a bundle, gives Fascisti, with its plural fascisti, which is used in an abstract sense as symbol. The Fascisti's symbol is bundle of rods with an ax outstanding in the middle, which was the symbol used by administrators of justice in the imperial Roman times.

The Fascisti is organized on the lines of the imperial Roman army, there are nineteen legions divided into several cohorts according to the men required for action, each cohort being a "senior," each cohort divided into two squadrons commanded by a "centurion," and each squadron of a squadron is commanded by a "centurion."

More Than a Million.

There are a little more than a million men enrolled in the Fascisti, these are divided into two groups called by the classic Latin term "Triarii," meaning those who are on propaganda and politics of revolution; and "Principi," which mean fighters. All the Fascisti, however, are subject to mobilization and military action in the event of trouble as happened a few days ago.

JOHN STEWART'S ESTATE IS GIVEN TO HIS DAUGHTER

Riverhead, L. I., Aug. 8.—[Special.]

Surrogate Robert S. Pelletreau of Suffolk county signed an order here today directing Leander H. La Chance and Martin Taylor, guardians of Mrs. Marion Stewart Honeyman, to turn over to her money, securities, and mortgages amounting to $2,100,337.31 less $60,000 allowed the guardians.

This is Mrs. Honeyman's share of the estate of her father, the late John K. Stewart, founder and president of the Stewart-Warner Speedometer company.

Surrogate Pelletreau also signed an order directing Taylor and La Chance, as guardians of the late Jean Stewart, Mrs. Stewart's younger daughter, to turn over to the administrators of her estate, the Suffolk County National Bank of Riverhead, and Robert E. Honigman Sr., $1,974,932.39, less $60,000 for the guardians.

Both Taylor and La Chance objected.

The accountings of the estate will be contested on the ground of alleged shrinkage.

STRIKES TO END IN WEEK; THEN GOOD TIMES, FORECAST

New York, Aug. 8.—[Special.]—That

J. Lyons, speaking today before the mid-summer convention of the National Retail Dry Goods Association at Grand Central Palace, which, in conjunction with the National Garment Retailers association's exhibition at the 11st regiment armory, constitute the national merchandise fair.

MINE PARLEY TO PROCEED DESPITE INDIANA ACTION

Illinois Operators May Not Attend.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.
Cleveland, Aug. 8.—[Special]—John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, said tonight that the planned joint conference will proceed with its program tomorrow regardless of the action of the Indiana operators' association in its refusal to participate in the parley and the expected refusal of the Illinois association.

A meeting of the miners' policy committee will be had tomorrow morning, and in the afternoon it is proposed to go ahead with the operators now here in the formation of a "four state" mine contract, extended, perhaps, to embrace northern West Virginia.

Union chiefs say yesterday's action in Terre Haute simply leaves the conference where it was a few days ago before hopes were held out that the Illinois and Indiana groups might be swayed over bodily.

If the men are told to return to work in pits that sign up operators now here, predict there will be a rush of producers to conform. The likelihood of getting profits escape by keeping pits down and the demand of the public for coal are two factors on which the union chiefs and the operators here are banking.

Illinois Is Represented.

After a check-up today transferring groups here declared that at least 1,000,000 of Illinois tonnage is already represented. It is from the Danville and Belleville regions. Among those present are C. E. Chubbuck, general manager of Senator McKinley's public utilities, which spread over many interstate countries. Sixty Indiana delegates said to be producing 4,000,000 tons represent. Northern Ohio is on the ground 90 per cent strong, while from the Pittsburgh region about 50 per cent of the output is represented here.

A split is reported in the Pittsburgh district, which gave the controversy its real kick-off last winter by refusing to attend the joint interstate conference stipulated in the old contract. With half the production represented here, however, "Mellon's" interests in which Andrew W. Mellon, secretary of the treasury, and some of his relatives are financially interested, have been sticking on the outside.

Bureau Cabinet Divided.

Some of the conference here point out that the Harding cabinet seems to be divided over the present conference, in the calling of which the administration is said to have had no hand. Secretary of Labor Davis is reported as advising some operators to participate, while on the other hand operators in which Secretary Mellon's interests have been taking the lead take.

Wall Street is said to be urging settlement upon producers because the coal and rail controversies are reducing industrial assumption, and all set to travel high once it becomes known that the interests here both sides regard tomorrow's parley as one of tremendous import.

Old Wages to Oftain.

The outlook tonight is that whatever agreement is forthcoming here between the old-timers and young conditions up to next March 31. Another fact finding body is to be established to find out what is the matter with the coal industry and to propose possible remedies.

It is expected that tomorrow the question of an agreement will be put in the hands of a committee to be composed of two miners and two operators from each of the states in the most competitive field. This committee would then report its findings Tuesday for action by the conference.

Indiana Ignores Conference.

Terre Haute, Ind., Aug. 8.—The Indiana Illuminous Coal Operators' association will not attend the Cleveland conference called by John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, who was unable to follow a meeting of the scale committee here today. J. M. Clegg, president of the National Coal association, who also is an Indiana operator, said he would not go to Cleveland and in a statement said that hope of a settlement at Cleveland had been "diminished if not killed by undue publicity."

GENEVA, Aug. 8.—(By the Associated Press)—Maj. None of the parents knew of the marriage.

According to the young couple, the marriage resulted from a love match between Sue and Beattie. Beattie told Sue "that just for that he was going to drive her to Crown Point and marry her."

Later both marriages were performed in Valparaiso because the clerk in Crown Point refused to get out of bed and issue the licenses for less than $50. The clerk in Valparaiso came to the aid of the lovers for $5 a couple.

DIVORCE TO FREE FOURTH HUSBAND OF NORA BAYES

New York, Aug. 8.—Three times divorced, Nora Bayes, actress, today faced the break-up of her fourth venture into matrimony. A referee recommended that a decree of divorce from her be granted to Arthur A. Gordon, whose witness testified that they caught the stage star misconducting herself early one morning last winter with Arthur Welton, described as an officer of a Baltimore trust company.

Gordon, a gift of the travel agent in which Miss Bayes took the defendant's role. Her other three court experiences were as plaintiff. The real name of Miss Bayes was Dora Goldberg. Her first marriage was to a Chicago business man, C. A. Gressing. After having her ties with him severed in the courts, she married Jack Wortham, an actor. In 1914 she obtained a divorce from him, and two weeks later became the bride of another member of the company, Harry Clark. They were domestic partners for about two years.

In 1920 Miss Bayes went before a marriage license clerk for the fourth time.

Following this forcing of a show-down by Sir Robert at the opening meeting, Premier Poincaré's proposals were examined one by one and reluctantly plucked to pieces by the British and Italians. The Belgians played the role of mediator, repeatedly steering the discussion away from the necessity of a formal vote, which would be certain to reveal a sharp split, with the majority against the French.

EXPERTS STUDY "RECEIVERSHIP" FOR GERMANY

French Seek Control of Teuton Industries.

BULLETIN.

PARIS, Aug. 8.—(By the Associated Press)—Prime Minister Lloyd George tonight expressed the opinion that a rupture in the entente was probable, if not inevitable, according to some of the French newspaper correspondents attending the allied conference in London, one of whom is "Pertinax," political editor of the Echo de Paris.

The British premier added that this was regrettable, both from the English and French viewpoints, and that Premier Poincaré's attitude left no option.

BY JOHN STEELE.
Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service. [Copyright, 1922, By The Chicago Tribune.]

LONDON, Aug. 8.—The financial experts of the allied nations spent today examining Premier Raymond Poincaré's fourteen points for control of Germany from the business viewpoint.

They have no powers to examine it for political expediency, but simply to report whether in their opinion the Poincaré plan would get any money out of Germany, and, if it would, whether the cost of collection would or would not be more than the amount received.

Some British authorities think the collection would cost more. They argue from experience already obtained from the effort to control German customs. That has been a notorious failure from a financial viewpoint.

Expect Further Delay.

It is felt in British diplomatic circles that the probable outcome of this conference will be further delay which on the whole it is believed will be desirable.

Germany probably will be granted a further limited autonomy during which the whole situation will be more closely examined and arrangements made for another conference.

The premiers and foreign ministers did not meet today while waiting for the experts' report, but Prime Minister David Lloyd George lunched at the French embassy as a guest of M. Poincaré.

The personal relations of Mr. Lloyd George and M. Poincaré are excellent.

British Jolt French Plan.

The French hopes of forcing Germany to pay up by drastic "receivership" action received a rude setback this morning by a pointblank question from Sir Robert Horne as to whether, since the total yield of Premier Poincaré's proposals, or even of a portion of them, exceeded 100 per cent.

The cause of divorce goes back to the proposal, according to Judge William N. Gemmill, who came in contact with 10,000 marital woes during his two years in the Court of Domestic Relations.

Describing the fact that such an important contract as a promise to marry has such little formality, Judge Gemmill says: "It is neither drawn by a lawyer nor signed by the parties. OFFICIALS SEE U.S. RECOGNITION OF MEXICO NEAR

Court Decisions on Oil
Lands Satisfactory.

(By A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.)
Washington, D. C., Aug. 8.—(Special)—Coincident with the announcement from the White House that relations with Mexico were "progressive favorably," and that every move made had been in the right direction, negotiations were completed today for the first time of the long awaited decisions of the Mexican Supreme court which are expected to have an all important bearing on the question of recognition of the Obregon government.

These decisions, the Mexican foreign office has formally declared, definitely assert that Article 27 of the Mexican constitution is not retroactive and therefore cannot be given a confidential effect. This question of possible confutation of American rights or property in Mexico has been the one great stumbling block in the way of recognition and it is therefore conceded that upon the state department's interpretation of these decisions may rest the solution of the whole problem of American relations with the southern republic.

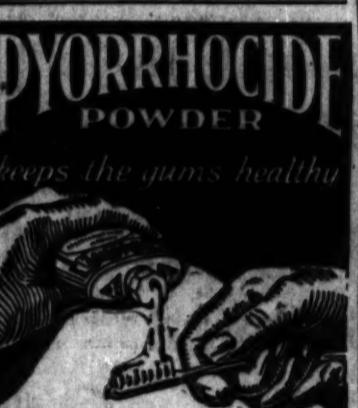

Importance of Decisions.

So much importance has Secretary of State Hughes attached to these decisions that the department, reluctantly, in an effort to avoid complications, has held part of its difficulty. In the present situation was the failure, until then, to receive the texts of the decisions. Another point emphasized by the department at that time was the fact that President Obregon had not ratified the so-called De la Huerta agreement with international bankers gathered at New York. It was perhaps significant in connection with the White House announcement also, that reports from Mexico City today were that Gen. Obregon had signed the financial agreement concluded at New York.

Held Copies of Court Rulings.

Copies of the Supreme court decisions have been in the hands of the state department for several days, but this is the first time their contents have been divulged. The translation now made for the first time is the official translation of the Mexican court.

The five decisions are of similar tenor, and therefore constitute the five similar verdicts, which under Mexican practice are necessary to establish a precedent for control of all lower courts in Mexico.

STEAM MADE BY ELECTRICITY AT TRIBUNE'S MILL

Coal Being Displaced in Paper Industry.

BY R. R. McCORMICK.

Thorold, Ont., Aug. 8.—(Special)—Arrangements were completed today to make steam in the 5,000 horsepower boilers of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE'S paper mill at Thorold by electricity. Motors in the mill are already operated from this source.

Only steam for cooking sulphite and drying of paper on machines has been made from coal. The cost of the changeover is less than $10,000 and can be completed in a fortnight.

Already the mills of the Laurentide Paper company, the East-Ontario paper company, and the new mill of the International Paper company, all located on the St. Maurice river, near Quebec, have adopted electric furnaces.

Coal vs. Electricity.

Electric fuel burns with coal in making steam, according to the cost of the two commodities, at the point of use. It takes approximately one horsepower of electricity per year to furnish the heat given by one ton of good Pennsylvania bituminous coal.

The coal strike has greatly boosted the hydro-electric industry in the water power country and is affecting the paper power in America. Already over one thousand water power plants in New York used for grinding pulp wood has been converted to the manufacture of electric power, while the offices of all hydro-electric companies in this neighborhood are congested with inquiries.

The new 600,000 horsepower plant, one-quarter completed, of the province of Ontario is operating to its present capacity and another 100,000 horsepower will be added as fast as the market will bear. Sir Adam Beck, chairman of the commission, is already agitating for the construction of another and larger plant.

The older electric plants on both sides of Niagara Falls, producing some 600,000 horsepower, are operating full and are refusing to renew existing contracts.

To Extend Power Area.

The only limit to the development of water power at the Niagara Falls head is the distance to which electricity can effectively be transmitted. The present power area from Niagara Falls extends from Syracuse on the east to Erie, Pa., and Windsor, opposite Detroit on the west. The highest voltage used in the existing system is 110,000 volts, giving an effective radius of not to exceed 200 miles.

Manufacturers now state that they are prepared to build and guarantee equipment carrying 200,000 volts, giving an effective radius of 500 to 600 miles.

Development of electric power at 200,000 volts would not only put Chicago and New York in the same radius of Niagara Falls but would put most of the large water powers east of the Rockies in practical touch with each other, so that systematic operation could be worked out, taking advantage of differences in time and of climate.

Power enthusiasts in the great plants at Niagara Falls are openly boasting that coal is now a decadent industry and the future of power lies in the streams of the continent.

The Buck Privates' society is looking for a loan—not a gift, they insist—for $650 to pay the July and August rent for their clubrooms at 55 East Adams street. If the loan is not forthcoming, balloon will be struck in and deposited there on Aug. 12.

CUB REPORTER DROPS BOMB IN BOMBING TRIAL

"Big Tim's" Defense Is Started by State Coup.

By PHILIP KINSLEY.

Five minutes after Big Tim Murphy left the witness box and the defense had rested its case in the police bombing trial before Judge Thomas T. Taylor yesterday afternoon, the state, in rebuttal, presented a new witness whose testimony touched the case at its most vital point, the relationship, if any, between John Miller and the defendants in the alleged terrorist conspiracy, Murphy, Fred Mader, and James Joseph McCarthy.

Charles A. Wilson, a reporter on an afternoon paper, examined by Assistant State's Attorney Elwood Godman, attacked the testimony given by Miss Patricia Dougherty, also a reporter on the same paper. Miss Dougherty, a witness for Murphy, had testified that she was in Murphy's office in the afternoon from 2:30 to 6:30 p.m. on the afternoon of May 9, and that Miller did not come in with Murphy during that time as Harry C. Payman had told the stand for the state.

In His Own Office.

Wilson said that Miss Dougherty sat in the newspaper office that afternoon from 2:30 until 4, positively, and that after he saw her at her desk about 5:45 o'clock, and later went with her to the door of Murphy's office holding a few minutes before 7 o'clock, Wilson also tested that one man left with her at 6:30 p.m. on May 9, and Payman's car on Halsted Street, he saw Murphy there "with a man who looks something like Mr. Miller." The defendant had just been asked to stand up for the witness continuity.

Defense Is Started.

This testimony, coming at the climax of the trial, when the defense lawyers had satisfied that their clients had not proven guilty and the only thing left was a little argument to the jury, threw these attorneys into something approaching consternation.

Charles Erbstein was picked out as the cross-examiner and immediately began a brisk examination of the witness, driving at the theory that he either was a romancer or had something wrong with his head or had been "framing" with the police. Court adjourned during this examination, which will be continued this morning.

Wilson's story, unless discredited before the jury, gives the state a new link in the somewhat flimsy chain that has connected these defendants with the killing of Policeman Lyons. The connection is made heretofore only on the testimony of Payman, who placed Miller in Murphy's office and in the company of "Smash" Hanson, and Miller, walking one afternoon in Miller's outer office, both of these witness have been under severe fire.

Volunteers as Witnesses

Something else was needed. It was found in Wilson's testimony. He said he was a volunteer witness and witness to Mr. Godman's office for the first time Monday evening.

The elaborate defense, supplied by half a dozen witnesses, that Miller could not have been with Murphy on May 9 before the bombings and killing because Miss Dougherty did not see him and Murphy's brother-in-law, Harry E. Miller, walking one afternoon in Miller's outer office, both of these witness have been under severe fire.

Known as "Two Gun."

Here is a sample of the cross-examination:

"You are known as Two Gun Wilson, aren't you? A.—Some of the boys in the office call me that."

"Do you carry a gun? A.—Not at all."

"Have you aspirations to become a detective? A.—I would not say so."

BIG TIM'S STORY

"Big Tim's not been for 'Two Gun' Wilson. His Tim's testimony would have made the sensation of the day. Murphy was a rever-

GANFIELD CITES PLAN TO PUT AN END TO STRIKES

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

Milwaukee, Wis., Aug. 8.—(Special.)—A plan for the peaceful settlement of disputes between capital and labor, which would relegate the strike weapon to the museum of archaic arms, has been put forward by Dr. W. A. Ganfield as a sample of the constructive legislation he would initiate if sent to the senate in place of Senator La Follette.

The college president and professor of economics, who is a candidate for the Republican nomination for senator, brands La Follette as obstructionist and destructive, and challenges him to site any constructive proposal he has made for eliminating industrial strife. Here is the Ganfield plan:

First—Give up all anger and hate and suspicion on the part of all parties involved in industry.

Recognize Mutual Interests.

Second—Frank recognition of the mutual interest, rights, and obligations of all parties, labor, capital, and the public.

Third—Creation of courts or commissions which will consider all differences or disputes and decide with fairness and justice to all parties.

Fourth—in case of any demand on the part of labor or capital for a change in wages or conditions, thirty days' notice shall be given. During the thirty days the parties shall continue on the existing basis and try by mutual agreement to adjust differences or disputes. If they fail, the question may be submitted to the court and the decision of the court shall be effective from the date of submission.

"I am not unmindful of the growing dislike for commissions," said Ganfield. "We are in danger of becoming overburdened by commissions. The labor plan I here propose is not for a commission with arbitrary power, but rather a court for settlement of differences and securing of justice."

Alluding to his charge that La Follette has lost his influence in Washington, Dr. Ganfield said that Wisconsin ought to be represented in the senate by men who can exert powerful pressure to procure favorable action on the St. Lawrence seaway project, which will bring ocean commerce to Wisconsin people.

Hammering at La Follette.

The Citizens' Republican state conference is hammering La Follette vigorously on his war record and his affiliation with the Socialists.

Otto Boethard of La Crosse, chairman of the conference, puts it this way: "No secret is made of the fact—the La Follette organizations are proclaiming with glee and satisfaction their merger and amalgamation with the Socialist party of Wisconsin."

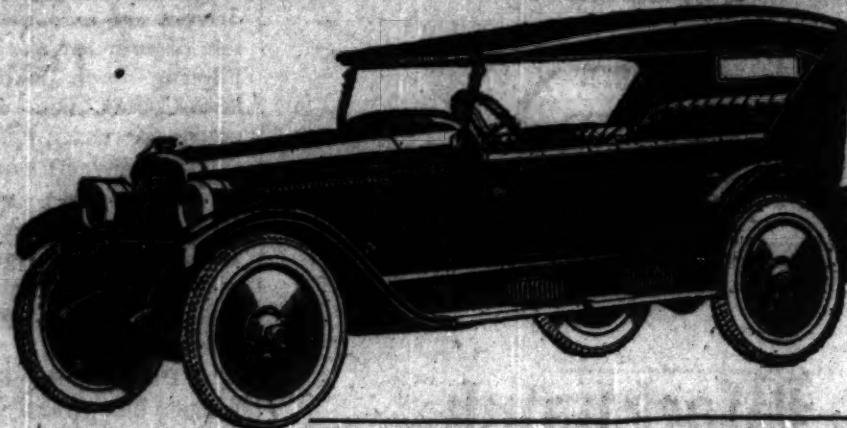

"There is no Socialist candidate for the United States senate. There is no candidate for congress by the La Follette faction in the Fifth congressional district. The Socialists will give their solid support in the Republican primaries to Mr. La Follette for senator. The La Follette supporters in the election will give their solid support to Victor Berger for congress in the Fifth district."

"As self respecting Republicans, we protest against this open alliance between Republicans, Nonpartisans, and Socialists."

MEETING OF DAIL AGAIN HALTED BY IRISH CIVIL WAR

Rebels Cut U. S. Cables; Seeking Truce.

REBELS, Aug. 8.—(By the Associated Press)—Owing to the slow progress in the operations against the rebels in southern Ireland, the meetings of the Free State, scheduled to open Saturday, will be postponed again, it was announced tonight.

The official army bulletin announced tonight that the Nationals captured Cork Island on Saturday. It says the towns of Cork and Kerry, with a part of south Tipperary and a small area in county Waterford, are the only areas held by the irregulars with any degree of security.

The Free State government is unaware of any negotiations for a settlement between the Ulster government and the Free State authorities, it was reported yesterday. It was learned today. It was further stated that such negotiations were unlikely to take place.

Seize Cables to U. S.

LONDON, Aug. 8.—(By the Associated Press)—Of the thirteen cables of the Commercial Cable company and the Western Union company which health the base of the trans-Atlantic service from Great Britain, only three were severed today—the of the Western Union from its station at Penzance, southwestern England. This is due to the seizure by Irish irregulars of the Commercial company's station at Waterford, southwestern Ireland, and the Western Union station at Valentia, the Kerry coast in the same region.

Commercial Cable company officials say the insurgents are not permitting the operators to work. Apparently the officials here were not informed as to whether the cables were damaged or traffic only momentarily stopped.

REBELS SEEK PEACE

BY THOMAS RYAN.

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]

CORK, July 24.—(By the Mail)—Rebel headquarters in Fermoy has given a tentative acceptance in reply to the peace appeal from Cork citizens. This answer was given with the knowledge of Eamon de Valera, who was in Fermoy barracks, and is now in Waterford county. As the Free Staters advance, headquarters have been successfully shifted from Limerick and moved to Fermoy.

From an excellent source that I have in the ranks of the republicans, our chiefs desire a truce. If they were not further attacked, they would agree to work by propaganda methods for the republic, whose establishment some of them think might require ten years by such means. They would keep their arms, and in fact it would be impossible to disarm individuals. They would accept the fact that the people want the treaty, but they would probably take no part in elections, as they say they could not take the required oath.

Hope to Halt Cork Attack.

Rebel leaders here believe that an accommodation is still possible and they are working desperately for a truce before an attack on Cork precipitates further destruction of property. The republicans approve definite proposals regarding army unification, including the appointment of Sam Hickey as head of staff. He was formerly in command of the first southern division,

SWING THE BIG STICK BOTH WAYS, MR. PRESIDENT.

It was said in the news from Washington yesterday morning that President Harding had made his last effort to bring the railway shop strike to an end. At first the railway executives refused to negotiate on the terms proposed by the President. He tried to win their support by modifying the terms and immediately the workers refused to consider the proposals.

Mr. Harding's bent may be towards settlement by conciliation, but in trying to do so he is now rebuffed by both sides. He had the opposition of the executives which he has not abated. He had the support of the workers which he has now lost.

Conciliation, attempted in the friendly manner which the President naturally adopts, seems to have failed. The strikers are calling on the railway brotherhoods for aid. The brotherhoods, which operate the trains, probably fear that an attempt to smash unionism is hidden in the controversy which no longer involves wages or opposition to labor board rulings. They may refuse to take out their trains. They may say that repairs are not sufficient and public safety is threatened by defective equipment.

Then the strike will be general. Transportation will stop and, with coal not being mined, the country will be headed towards general misery.

This cannot be endured, Mr. President, and ought not to be risked. Roosevelt brought the coal interests to terms and served public welfare.

The country must have railroads and it must have coal. Winter is not so far away and it is coming with a sack of trouble if we do not get coal mined and fuel and food transported.

PEACE AND ECONOMIC CO-OPERATION IN EUROPE.

An economic journal in France preaches an understanding with Germany based on the fact that France needs German coke, Germany needs French iron, and that both countries are economically interdependent.

Meanwhile the French government is showing what it thinks of this theory—so plausible to Americans—by "enforcing sanctions" in Alsace and sequestering all moneys and stock accounts owned by Germans until further notice. At London President Polk will resist every proposal for any decisive modification of the exactions upon Germany, while Lloyd George will go as far as he dares to save a German catastrophe.

From America it seems very obvious that what France, as well as Germany and, in fact, all Europe, needs is a moratorium, not only on excessive reparations and impossible debts, but on ancient hates. Economic integration is the key to European peace.

We can understand why the French hate the Germans and why the English with their unrivaled towns and their unchallenged supremacy of the seas find it possible to be relatively moderate. We can understand the French fear of a restored Germany and why the fall of the Hohenzollerns does not remove it. But the course followed by French policy since the armistice is hard for us to understand. It has blocked financial reform and economic integration and kept Europe on the brink of a financial, economic, social and political catastrophe, in which, if it comes, France herself must be one of the first victims. Trade carries peace, said a great French philosopher, and it seems evident to us in America that if the economic bonds of France and Germany could be firmly established, the safety of France would be better guaranteed than by any military force.

WHY FEDERAL GUARDIANSHIP OF THE MOVIES?

The federal trade commission has started action to prevent motion picture exhibitors and the public from being imposed upon through the marketing of old films under new titles or of new films improperly bearing titles of noted books or plays. The intent of the action, no doubt, is good. It is designed to save moving picture patrons from deception, with consequent waste of time and money. But why make it a subject for federal intervention?

It is one more bit of evidence of the growing tendency toward shifting all local responsibility to the federal government. Any good that it might do is likely to be more than offset by the evil of this tendency to centralization.

It is right and proper that deception in the production and display of films should be discouraged, but it is not right or proper that such a duty be added to the growing burdens of federal government. It can be easily handled by the exhibitors of moving pictures, and if allowed to take its course will be sufficiently discouraged by the patrons of the movies. No movie fan will make a practice of paying out money and wasting time at a movie theater which hires him in to sit through an old play under a new title, or entices him to a poor play by giving it falsely the name of a good one. Patrons of such theaters will promptly discourage such practices by refusing their patronage.

In any event it is not a subject for federal intervention. If there is to be any law besides the law of supply and demand applied to the production or exhibition of films under such misleading titles it can be formulated and applied by local authorities. A local board of censors, for instance, could refuse permits to prospective exhibitors of such films. Such a simple course, or the natural reaction of patrons against movie houses where they are deceived and defrauded by false titles, should be ample to correct the evil without federal intervention.

HERRIN AND THE JOLIET MURDERS.

That the sheriff of Will county should be shot in the performance of his duty is a natural sequel to the Herrin massacre, or, rather, to the failure to bring any one to punishment for that crime. At Herrin union men on strike asserted the right to murder nonunion men. They killed by wholesale with zest and openly gloried in the atrocity. Moreover, there has been no emphatic repudiation from the leadership of union labor, much less assistance to authorities in bringing the guilty to justice.

As for the action of constituted authority, it has been ineffective. The local machinery of justice is apparently tainted with the perverted public sentiment and savage partisanship of the district. The state authorities apparently have been divided as to measures and the attorney general has not been able to get prompt results.

The result is that the Herrin massacre stands today an unchallenged defiance of our law and civilization. As such it is an invitation to murder and to massacre, to mob tyranny and insolent disregard of private rights or public authority.

When a crowd gathers in sympathy with strikers and threatens riot and assault, arson or murder, the peace officers must expect murderous attack so long as the Herrin outrage goes unpunished. We trust these officers and the guardmen called to service will be assured of their duty and exercise it without fear or hesitation. Strikers who use guns and assume they are entitled to destroy property and wound or kill should be taught that the commonwealth of Illinois is conscious of its strength and will not have its laws defied and the peace of its people destroyed. But Illinois must wipe out the blot of Herrin if it is to hold up its head among American communities or expect that violent men will respect her. We do not think a sufficient effort has been made by the state authorities. We recognize there are difficulties, but they should be attacked more energetically.

There are ways to bring Williamson county to a decent sense of its obligations. Criminal prosecution should be pressed in spite of obstructions and another method is civil proceedings to penalize the county for its failure to maintain and protect life within its borders. There is no reason for the existence of government if it will not do that, and Williamson county, if it cannot be brought to a moral reprobation of the Herrin tragedy or assist to bring its perpetrators to punishment, can at least be penalized financially for its attitude.

We do not ignore the fact that crimes go unpunished in Cook county and elsewhere throughout the country. We have had our shameful race riots, and we may have other outbreaks of mob violence. In such case we shall suffer and ought to suffer. But one thing is clear, and that is the disposition to use violence in this country is not adequately treated by the agencies of government nor sufficiently reproved by the public conscience.

There is no shadow of excuse for this pervasive evil. "We make our own laws; we choose our own officials to enforce them. Neither is imposed upon us, yet we permit both to be defied. That is to confess our own moral feebleness and want of civic intelligence.

That the Herrin massacre should occur was bad enough, but that we should sit quietly by while it goes unpunished into oblivion is far worse.

Editorial of the Day

ALL RIGHT—JUST READ WHAT WE ARE SAYING.

[1-Italy (July 16, 1922).]

When in April, 1917, the United States submitted to the rude necessity of war and appealed to the population for the sacrifices called for by war, it was found that the inhabitants of this country, from the point of view of national cohesion, were no more than an international boarding house. It is true that during the war period there was no reason to complain: the bulk of the people from abroad gave even more than was asked of them. But it cannot be denied either that, beginning with the day of the armistice, the problem of the foreign born population loomed up large before the eyes of the Americans. And the plan was conceived and pondered more and more of solving this problem by measures drastic and fulminant for the millions and millions who, in a historical course of events that could no longer be changed, had come to settle and find a new home in this country.

The problem of the civic digestion of the foreign born population burst forth formidable, and it faced first of all to the policy to restrict immigration. Many surprises are surely still in store for us.

Now this Chicago newspaper, looking ahead, proceeds to throw its weight on the editorials printed in the foreign language press, and wants to read through them the thoughts of that population and communicate them to the natives.

We like to look on the plan as embodying perfectly good faith and at the same time as a dexterous journalistic maneuver; this much, and nothing else. And we feel pleased when viewing it in this aspect. It is clear that when the Americans will read us we will no longer keep so much away from us; and, even if they should not succeed in understanding us fully, they will at least not continue suspecting us continually.

But if they will come to read us—and now we speak of the Italians, for whom alone we have the right to stand up as spokesmen—and to understand us they will perceive that the Italian stock constitutes a balancing factor, thanks to the education and democratic schooling which are peculiar to our native country; that it respects the laws and wants to see them respected above anything else; that it upholds away from itself each and every kind of violence and domineering in the name of the civil conscience by which it is animated, whether such action comes from above or from below; and that in this way it forms a moral dam against the not infrequent attempts at individual or collective revolts which we behold on looking at democracies which are still insufficiently broken in to the plan of popular government.

Provided only the outward forms are saved, any political subversion finds them entirely indifferent and tranquil; whatever the public powers and the factions may feel inclined to do, the matter does not concern them nor interest them at all. This is perhaps to be regretted, but it results, or should result, in putting them and against all opposition.

And, above all, they would see that in the hour of every supreme trial we Americans even more and give up to her in a richer measure than the native born Americans, or at the very least equally so, when it comes to answering "present" at every appeal.

In any event it is not a subject for federal inter-

SIBERIA DROPS RED RULE FOR REAL REPUBLIC

Peaceful Revolution in a Few Days, Report.

BY RODERICK MATHESON,

TOKYO, Aug. 8.—[By Tribune Wireless.]—The now famous Balfour note, which was issued without the knowledge or consent of the foreign office, was not aimed at Washington nor even at Paris, but was a political manifesto for home consumption in view of the general election, which is believed to be very near.

It is explained that the note was intended to make clear to the British voter why the Lloyd George government could not reduce taxes.

The voter has been grumbling about the high income tax, but now it is believed he will say, "It's too bad about those damned foreigners, but I suppose I'll have to pay."

Matured at Harbin. The new government have slowly and systematically matured in the last two years through a series of events from Harbin, the leaders being to avoid anything premature.

"There must be the last governmental stage in Siberia," says the informant. "The junta represents the people of Siberia, being chosen by elected representatives of the whole people. The leaders are mainly survivors of the former democratic government which Gen. Koltchak overthrew. Mr. Anatole is the closest contact with the American, British, and Japanese consular representatives in Vladivostok, the embassies in Peking and also with higher authorities in the respective capitals. Everything is now ready to overthrow the Child administration.

A Peaceful Overture. The new elected government of Vladivostok demanded the reactionary White, putting Primakov in a position immediately to recognize all Siberian movements. The overthrow is expected to be without bloodshed, whereof there has been much already. A few of the reddest Communists may die, but there will be no general fighting. The vast majority of the Siberian people are fully aware of the situation and naturally are awaiting word from the west. The junta's most difficult task recently has been to restrain the people until the most complete details for foreign recognition and outside financial assistance has been arranged, which now has been done.

A change will be made within a few days, possibly within a month, probably within six months, before a final confirmation of the harrowing certainty. When the moment arrives the Child Red administration will disappear like a pricked bubble.

The new administration is ready to recognize international laws, the validity of foreign debts, and the general rules of humanity. It will welcome all power investments, guaranteeing the safety of lives and property.

As far as to date, the movement was entirely overcome by the energetic action of the Brazilian government, did not have all, being confined to a small fraction of the Brazilian population.

It was dominated in a short time, causing any great damage to the population of Brazil, having been but a few days.

The present situation of Brazil, which was not any better than the occurrence had took place than the during the recent miners' strike.

specially against bolshevists, communists, and socialists because they hold these were the greatest enemies of the country. Tomorrow they may fight any other party which they think aims at the destruction or deration of the country's power. A most noteworthy fact is that, although iron discipline governs the Fascisti, there is scarcely any occasion to punish one of them, for they all perform their duty spontaneously and with the greatest enthusiasm.

Miracle of Italy.

They performed a miracle in changing virtually bolshevist Italy into an intense nationalist nation. From Ancona today comes word that this hotbed of bolshevism became Fascisti in three days of propaganda. Red flags were burned and were replaced with tricolors. Ancona is only one of many cities which turned in a body. Fascism is not a secret organization like the Ku Klux Klan, for everybody knows its activities. Its adherents wear uniforms which everybody can see. They use illegal means because the constituted powers cannot deal with the situation. The bolsheviks and socialists had virtually beaten him. The warrant here charges operation of a confidence game. Police say there are other victims besides Miss Lester.

DUPEE ESTATE $500,000, COURT PLEA INDICATES

Petition for letters of administration filed yesterday indicate that the late John Dupee, former grain operator, left property valued at more than $900,000. The petition was filed by the Union Trust Co., and states that Mr. Dupee's will was probated in San Diego, Cal., where he had lived for a number of years.

The will creates a trust fund of two-thirds of the estate, of which the widow, Mrs. Evelyn Walker Dupee, now living at Coronado, Cal., is beneficiary. The residue is placed in trust for a son, Walter H. Dupee of Riverside, Cal. Upon the death of Mrs. Dupee, a daughter-in-law, Mrs. Florence K. Dupee, will inherit her share, and two grandchildren will receive the principal of the second trust, following the death of Walter Dupee.

Mr. Dupee was one of the partners of Schwartz, Dupee & Co. until its dissolution fifteen years ago, one of the largest grain commission houses in the country.

The New York Tribune has prepared an elaborate book covering the important features of Gravure advertising in newspapers which advertisers and their representatives want to know.

We believe it to be the most complete work of its kind ever produced and it will be valuable in demonstrating the remarkable success of the Gravure process in accurately reproducing copy of every description.

The book is full newspaper page size, printed on the same paper and in the same way as the regular Gravure section of The Sunday Tribune, and is profusely illustrated with every modern art technique. It contains an untechnical description of the Gravure process, instructions for preparing Gravure copy and valuable data on Gravure as a local and national advertising medium.

Any business or advertising executive may have a copy upon request on his business stationery.

This Makes the Curl Stay in Your Hair

The Silmerine method is unusually popular just now, according to the warm weather, because women are now spending much of their time out doors. This simple method not only preserves

looking curl and waves, but keeps the hair in curl (long or bobbed hair), no matter how hot the day is, nor how hard the wind blows.

You only need do it to wet a clean tooth brush with water, then draw this through the hair before doing it up, and the hair will dry in just the shape you desire. This will also keep the hair straightening silky and smooth. A few ounces of silmerine will last for months.

SENATE BOOSTS DUTY ON SUGAR; POTASH IS FREE

(By A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.)
Washington, D. C., Aug. 8.—(Special)—By a vote of 37 to 35 the senate has boosted the duty on sugar above the rate in the McCumber tariff bill. The new duty, as embodied in an amendment offered by Senator Smoot (Utah), is 3.3 cents a pound on full duty sugar and 2 cents on Cuban sugars. This was defeated by a vote of 35 to 37.

The increase in the duty on sugar again shows the power of the agricultural group in the senate. The action taken in response to the demand of American beet sugar growers in the middle west and west and of Louisiana sugar growers for greater protection against Cuban competition. The increase was voted in spite of a campaign conducted by Americans with investments in Cuba aggregating $1,000,000,000, who urged that a decrease in the emergency tariff rate was essential in view of the present financial condition of Cuba.

KILLED IN ELEVATOR SHAFT.

Roy Stanner, 19 years old, 730 Brainerd Avenue, was killed yesterday while repairing an elevator in the Rock Island railway station. He was crushed between the elevator and the side of the shaft.

Potash Goes on Free List.

The senate also settled another of the major controversies of the tariff discussion, that relating to potash. By a vote of 68 to 1 in the senate, on the motion of Senator McCumber (D.), chairman of the finance committee, the duties which were to apply on potash for a period of five years under both the house bill and the McCumber bill as reported originated from the committee. This action removes potash to the free list without qualifications and was in accord with the demand of agricultural spokesmen who have objected to the imposition of any duty on the cheap German potash, which is used for fertilizer.

The finance committee proposal to pay a government bounty to producers of potash, in lieu of any duty, met defeat by a vote of 30 to 32. Twelve Republicans, under the leadership of Senator Lemroot (Wis.), voted against the committee amendment proposing a bounty, and their votes were sufficient to kill it. The twelve Republicans were Borah (Idaho), Capper (Kan.), Cummins (Ia.), Edge (N. J.), Johnson (Wash.), McCormick (Ill.), Nelson (Minn.), Odell (Nev.), Townsend (Mich.), Wedsworth (N. Y.), and Willis (Okla.).

What Bounty Would Cost.

The committee amendment provided for the payment of a bounty over a period of five years, the rate for the first two years being 2½ cents a pound; for the third year, 2 cents a pound; for the fourth year, 1½ cents a pound, and for the fifth year, 1 cent a pound. The sum to the government over the five year period was estimated at $9,500,000.

Senator Simmons (N. C.), ranking Democratic member of the finance committee, and other Democrats joined Senator Lemroot in assailing the bounty proposal.

The senate, by a vote of 39 to 25, rejected white arsenic to the free list. Objection was made to a proposed duty of 2 cents a pound because of a burden on farmers who buy it to fight insect pests.

BATTEN

When you retire
will your business go on?

MANY business men talk of the day when they will retire.

Yet very few actually do it.

They find they can't let go absolutely right now—next year maybe, but not now.

They want the business they have worked so hard to build, to go on. They are afraid "the boys" are not quite ready to take the reins.

And often they are right. The head of a business can lay down policies and judgments for forty years, and the forty-first year someone in his company asks him what to do about some matter that was thought to be as settled as the alphabet.

This sort of thing happens in the business that the public does not know. The business that is advertised not only gains a public good-will, but its standards and methods become known to all men.

The very pressure of public opinion helps to hold the advertised business upon its established track.

Count the business men you know who have actually or partially retired. You will find that a large number of them were connected with firms that advertised their policies and their wares.

The chief may be playing golf or touring Europe, but his business and his advertising are going on.

ONCE a month, or more frequently, we issue a publication called Batten's Wedge. Each issue is devoted to a single editorial on some phase of business. If you are a business executive and would like to receive copies, write us.

SEEK TO CHANGE JUDGE PLAN IN NEW BASIC LAW

By E. O. PHILLIPS.

Definite campaigning has started for a reopening of the judicial article of the proposed new Illinois constitution when the constitutional convention re-assembles at Springfield Sept. 12.

The proposal is to increase the size of the Supreme court from seven to nine members. The six downstate districts would stand as they are now constituted, and the present "Seventh" or Chicago district would be given three justices instead of one.

The plan, sponsored chiefly by Republicans in northern Illinois, is that at the submission election on Dec. 12 one new justice shall be elected from Chicago, and that one shall be elected from the counties of Lake, Cook, Kankakee and DuPage, the two new justices to take their seats in the event the new constitution is ratified.

The wording of the proposed change would be such as to prevent the election of more than two justices from the same county. In effect this would give to Chicago one justice, to the country towns of Cook county one, and to the other four counties now in the Chicago district, one.

This would continue Justice Cartwright's district in northern Illinois as it now stands and probably permit his re-election in 1924 without difficulty, instead of retiring him, as the present draft of the constitution provides. Justice Thompson of Rock Island, would continue in the district which he now represents.

To reopen the judicial article and also the revenue article in September at Springfield will require a two-thirds vote, in case unanimous consent is refused. Determined effort will be made, it is known, to make a final attempt to reconsider the revenue article for the purpose of changing the language as to the assessment of personal property.

Board Will Get Public School Budget Today

Work on the public school budget was rushed at an all day session of the finance committee of the school board yesterday so that it might be presented to the board for discussion and approval at its meeting today.

The finance committee has been meeting daily for two weeks in order that various departments may learn their appropriations and plan their work accordingly.

BRAD SMITH WINS MEDAL HONORS IN CITY'S GOLF MEET

HOLE IN ONE CLUB

VERNON CHAMPLIN WARD JR., 12 year old son of V. C. Ward of the Illinois A. C., made the eighth hole at the Northpoint Golf club of Michigan in one. He made the nine hole course in 45.

Doug Pillinger, while playing in a foursome at the White Lake Golf club Saturday, made the orchard hole, 137 yards, in an act.

Brad Smith, graduate of the University of Chicago, representing the Jackson Park golf club, won the low qualifying score in the city championship at Jackson park yesterday with a card of 75-70-142. He finished one stroke ahead of Russell Martin, also of Jackson, the defending champion, and Walter Crowe, Briarcliff, who learned his game on the west side. Each had 142.

Earl Munson, and Sol Miller of Jackson and Walter Crowley of Lincoln, who topped the field on the first day with 72s, dropped a few places, Crowley landing fourth with 147. Champion Tom Frahey of Edgewood was close up with 145, and with A. J. Sauer of Jackson, who also played in the city event a number of years, and J. K. Lantz, the star Ridge player, who also has tried for the title several times.

O'Connor in Second Flight.

Nearly all of the better known players in the better flight, Dan O'Connor, a scratch man at Lincoln, fell into the second flight. Matt Jans of the Evanston Community club, who has not yet received his reinstatement papers as an amateur, was not allowed to continue, and as George Packard of the Community club was not on hand, there was a four handed tie at 80 for two places in the championship flight. These were won by H. E. Spears and J. J. Mahoney, H. D. Gruber and T. Lapp falling into the second flight.

In the men's medal Smith made a good finish. Trapped at the 18th hole, his bigger shot out, hit a tree, and he got a four; through the medium of a 12 foot putt.

The first round today will be at 18 holes, the losers dropping into consolation flights.

COUNTY ROADS, COST $1,500,000, BEING PLANNED

By J. L. JENKINS.

Cook county's famous system of paved highways is to be augmented by important connecting links, cut-offs, and auxiliary arteries to cost approximately $1,500,000, according to mid-season road building plans newly approved by the county board. A total of fifty-eight miles of new pavements is included in the plans, all of them designed to facilitate the enormous motor and farm-to-market travel.

17th Avenue Work Planned.

Among the most important stretches of new road to be started this fall after completion of highway work to date is a stretch of 17th avenue running north from the Ogden avenue pavement through Brookfield, Broadview, and Maywood to Madison street and forming a paved connection between Roosevelt road and Ogden avenue.

Another is the heavily used Mannheim road, which is to be paved from Roosevelt road north through Bellwood to Lake street, and the new road for westbound traffic. It is also planned to serve travelers in the southeast part of the county by paving 9th street from its Keane avenue intersection west to connect with Archer road.

In the northwest plans include paving Bartlett road from Lake street north to the Chicago-Elgin road and the Palatine road from its intersection with the Roselle road east through Palatine to the Rand road.

Following are the new stretches planned:

Bartlett road—From the county line north to the Chicago-Elgin road, 5 miles.

Palatine road—From the Roselle road east to the Rand road, 5.5 miles.

Danvers road—From the McHenry road east to Milwaukee avenue, 1 mile.

Elmhurst road—From the Elmer road north to the Rand road, 2.25 miles.

TREACHEROUS LOVE BY BARRETT WILLOUGHBY

GENOPIA.

John Borland, a prospector cruising up the Alaskan coast in his own schooner, the "Kaleean," arrives at Katesean. He and his wife, Ellen, their little son and Ellen's sister, Jean Wiley, are welcomed by Paul Kilbuck, the agent of the Alaska Fur and Trading Company. Kilbuck, a strong but unscrupulous man, is known up and down the coast as the White Chief.

Borland's interest is aroused by Kilbuck's tales of a lost island, the sands of which have never been trodden. It is filled with gold. This mysterious island is supposed to be Kon Klav, a small uninhabited strip of land ninety miles off the coast of Katesean. At the mention of gold Borland's adventurous blood is profoundly stirred and he decides to visit Kon Klav.

Kilbuck encourages the prospector in this project, although he knows that Kon Klav is nothing more than a barren rock completely surrounded by dangerous reefs and shoals and shunned by ships since a death trap. He is tired of the native women of his household and the love of Ellen's beauty and courage has tree his imagination and he desires to get rid of her husband. But Ellen uses all his carefully laid plans by refusing to remain behind at Katesean, and with Jean and her young son, Loll, goes with her husband to Kon Klav.

George Herian, the trading company's bookkeeper at Katesean, captivated by the charms of young Jean, makes the trip with the expedition to the island. He intends to return to the "Kaleean" after the Borland party has been landed, but through an accident he loses his way back without him.

The party has only a six weeks' supply of food, as Kilbuck had promised to bring the men back to the island within that time with the winter supplies. He leaves them there to starve, and it is due to the separate and combined heroism of its members that the little party survives the winter.

Early in the spring George and Jean, while exploring the rocky shore, find gold. They take new life into the mind of the men, and patching up their little boat the three of them set out on their hazardous venture to Kon Klav. Before he goes Greyak Jean to may him.

The men have been gone only a little while when Kilbuck, weak and wounded, is brought to the island by one of his Indians, having been rescued by him from a wrecked ship.

INSTALLMENT LVII. THE SINISTER GUEST.

But this was no dream. The cry came again, one minute apparently from the depths of the ocean, then from the lookout above the cabin. It came nearer, growing more appalling, more mysterious in its possibilities. It fled her with fearful, inchoate imaginings.

In an agony of terror she reached out and shook her sister's shoulder.

"Ellen! Ellen!" she whispered tensely. "Listen! Some one is calling!"

Ellen awakened out of a belated sleep, raised on her elbow and tossed the two boys from her face.

Again came the unearthly: "Awh-hoo-o-o-o!" rising thin and high and dying away on the falling infection.

Ellen's face went paler as she listened. She lingered a moment, then sprang out of bed. Slipping her hand beneath her pillow she drew forth the revolver and started for the door. Jean crawled gently over the sleeping Loll and followed.

They stood on the porch in the freshness of the dawn searching the familiar landscape for some sign of life. The storm had cleared away and long curtains clouds streaked the intense blue above. Once out in the open Jean's soul was cleared of its phantoms. But a sudden shock went through her when from just over the bank, the call came again.

Almost immediately there appeared in the trail the strange tottering form of a man. He advanced haltingly as if spent from some long struggle; his bare, black head sunk on his chest, his damp garments clinging to him.

"Stop!" Ellen's voice rang out. "Tell me who you are and where you are from!"

The man raised his head. At the sight of the two women standing in their white robes, their loose hair floating about them, a spasm of mortal terror creased his dark face.

"Kwia-ka! Kwia-ka!" he yelled, at the same time throwing up his arms and turning to run weakly down the trail.

Ellen covered the staggering figure with her revolver, but Jean caught her hand. "Don't! Ell! Be careful!" she cried breathlessly. "Can't you see it's our friend! It's Swimming Wolf from Katesean!"

She sprang along the trail after him calling: "Wolf! O, Swimming Wolf! Don't run away from us! Don't you know your friends?"

The man, terrified by something, she knew not what, kept up his feeble run. She overtook him and held him. The big Indian collapsed on the sand. His hand clutched painfully over her shoulder as she bent over him. Her fingers traced the marks left by the cold search across her face. At the touch his look gave place to one of relief. "Yah! Little squaw with white feet!" he gasped. "Swimming Wolf, thank you all same dead—think all you people dead. Long time you have no food. He pinched her arm again as if to reassure himself that she was flesh and not blood and not the kus-taka, the ghost he had thought her. He continued: "Long time now, Swimming Wolf no grub two." He opened his mouth and pointed a shaking finger down his throat.

"No grub, no water, no sleep, free day." He held up three fingers, turning his head slowly from side to side. "Three day lost. Plenty tired."

His voice was weary, plaintive, as only an Indian voice can be. Jean vowed how she had for one instant attributed his Indian cry to supernatural powers—she who had often heard him calling to members of his tribe along the shores of Katesean.

In his condition, the girl checked the eager questions that rose in her heart, and when Ellen came up, between them they managed to get the man to the cabin. They fed him bread and hot soap-sparrow broth. He is asavenous as much as Ellen thought good for him, but when she tried to move him to lie down in Kayak Bill's bunk, he shook his head, and started tremulously for the door.

"No, no," he said sharply. "You come along. Other man with Swimming Wolf."

They followed him down the trail to the beach and turned with him toward Sunset Point. He paid no attention to their eager questions, but suddenly stopped and pointed ahead. In the maw of the sun inside the point a whale was churning. At the sight of it cries of alarm broke from the women's throats, but again the Indian shook his head.

"Him not there," he assured them. "Him up there!" He indicated the sun line. He hurried along beside them, intent on taking them to where he could lay.

The great still dark form lying prone on the edge of the rice grass where Swimming Wolf had dragged it. Ellen, with a bottle of water and some bread to her hands, ran forward toward the prostrate man. Within a few feet of him Jean saw her check herself and shrink back. Then, reluctantly the girl went on. Jean quickened her pace.

As she approached Ellen turned swiftly to them. "Him up there!" he said.

"Man!" she said hardly above her breath. "Look!"

Jean gazed with incredulous eyes into the face on the sand. The black beard was matted with seawater. Below the bandaged forehead two weary gray eyes opened. A moment of faint look of surprise crept into them. Then they closed again and the man lay still as death.

"Oh—oh!" Jean's voice had an uncontrollable quiver. "Oh—oh! It's the White Chief of Katesean!"

A week had gone by since the day the White Chief and Swimming Wolf had been cast up on the shores of Kon Klav. The women, with the help of the Indian, had lifted the inert form of the dazed man to a mattress at the spot where they had found him, and dragged it literally inch by inch along the beach to the cabin. They put him to sleep in Kayak Bill's bunk in the little room off the living room.

For Ellen and Jean the days were filled with intangible doubt and mounting fear, for no sail whitened off Kon Klav. Added to the acute anxiety in regard to their man was now the problem of the White Chief of Katesean. What queer twist of fate had tossed the trader, helpless and without food, on the island where his very life depended on those he had left to starve? And if their men were lost at sea what would happen to them when Kilbuck recovered his strength?

Gradually, from the disjointed utterances of the superstitious Indian and from their own knowledge of the trader, they were able to piece together the story of the White Chief's mishap—not the story as Swimming Wolf knew it, tinged with eerie Thingling superstition and mystery—but the prosaic version of the white man, who sees everything through logical eyes, and is ever explaining away all that is mysterious in life and much that is interesting.

The White Chief sometimes went without liquor, had, as they knew, periods when he drank as no other man in all Alaska. Curiously enough, he never gave way to his desire for drink, but with one faithful native to attend him, he would go aboard his trading vessel, and there sink himself into the oblivion brought about by hooch.

In the latter part of May that a schooner, the Silver Fox, came to the Bay of Katesean. The owner and captain was a German, bound for Alaska. Kilbuck, after nearly a year of abstinence, had given in to his craving, and with Swimming Wolf, sought the cabin of the German. After two days of the German's liquid hospitality, he was too bad for adventure. Doubtless the thought of Ellen and her family had been with him during the winter. Perhaps he had some inchoate plan of getting her when he put to sea with the pot-valiant captain of the Silver Fox; but six hours from the post he collapsed in a stupor on the floor.

PLAN $3,000,000 TWIN TO WRIGLEY OFFICE BUILDING

Will Use the Whole Block North of Structure.

A $3,000,000 twin to the Wrigley building at the North Michigan boulevard link bridge will be erected by William Wrigley Jr.

The new building, to conform architecturally with the present structure, will be of the same height and will be built on the boulevard level. It will occupy the entire block immediately north of the present structure, the building plot fronting eighty-two feet on Michigan boulevard. It will have a depth of 212 feet on East North Water street, 225 feet on East Austin avenue, and a frontage of 122 feet on Rush street. The total floor area of the new office skyscraper will be about 22,000 square feet, or 9,000 square feet more than that of the present building.

Almost a Rectangle.

The new building will resemble an imperfect rectangle, the fronting on the boulevard and on Rush street not precisely conforming.

Through the new building will reach only to the main roof of the present skyscraper, the architects, Graham, Anderson, Probst and White, are said to have so worked out their designs that the present tower will appear to surmount both structures.

With the completion of the new building, Mr. Wrigley's total investment on North Michigan avenue will have reached nearly $7,000,000, it is estimated.

Interests Tribune Designers.

Announcement of this new movement for upper Michigan avenue immediately stirred the interest of the sources of architects who are busy with designs for the proposed new Wrigley building, to be erected almost directly across the street.

Mr. Wrigley announced he had just completed negotiations with representatives of the Hoyt and Newman estates for ground leases, to run 198 years, covering the property. A valuation of about $1,000,000, under the lease, is placed on the land.

Plans for construction of work on the new "Wrigley Twin" are to be rushed, it is said. The A. R. Thompson company, partners, are to build the front half of the old four-story building on the site. The rest of the building is under a seven year lease to the Brunswick-Balke Collander company.

"My great faith in the growth of Chicago—particularly in the future of the upper Michigan avenue district—is reflected in my decision to double the capacity of our present building," said Mr. Wrigley yesterday.

"Chicago is ludicrously far behind New York in municipal improvements," he continued. "For instance, we had fuses and fuse boxes to get our new Michigan avenue bridge link through, whereas New York has in a few years built two wonderful bridges and is planning a third, which is to be the world's greatest."

Assails Conservation.

Mr. Wrigley said that though Chicago has a debt of only $30,000,000 as compared to New York's billion of indebtedness, every time an improvement is proposed "some old property owners and those who are engaged in business feel the city's destinies oppose it with all their power and all their breath."

Mr. Wrigley lays much stress upon the transportation needs of Chicago.

"We have seen Chicago grow from 700,000 persons to nearly 3,000,000, while our transportation facilities have stood absolutely still," he said. "Chicago must have subways. Any intelligent thinking man can see that."

This north side district will be the first to show improvement. In a short time the few old houses will be gone, will give place to modern, office buildings, making it the most attractive business section of any city in the world. Other new buildings planned in the district will undoubtedly be equally beautiful as the two Wrigley buildings.

"But Chicago is full of obstructionists, both among property owners and the city government. It remains for a few men, who see the future of Chicago, to lead the way to beautifying and modernizing it."

SAXOPHONES SOB NO MORE AT RITZ; U. S. NAILS DOORS

Year's Injunction Is Given Against Cate.

The Ritz-Carlton, 3845 Cottage Grove avenue, most notorious of Chicago's "midnight to dawn" black and tan resorts, was nailed shut yesterday afternoon by United States deputy marshals after Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson had proclaimed the place a "public nuisance." The court's order told:

"The Tribune will pay $5 cash for questions which are accepted for the Inquiring Reporter to ask. Send in your name and address with your question to 'The Inquiring Reporter, Chicago Tribune.' No question will be returned. For today's question, Miss M. A. Solana, St. Charles, Ill., was awarded $5.

The Question.

Should a married woman allow her husband to dictate concerning her clothes?

Where Asked.

First three in Humboldt park; last two at the Municipal pier.

The Answer.

Mrs. Clarence Stoeker, 4860 North Rockwell street—The men get around more than most women do, and when they see some one else wearing something especially attractive it is natural for them to like seeing that person wearing something like it. It's a wise wife that pleases her husband.

John Landregan, 1510 North Menard avenue, clerk—I would say that she should not. I wouldn't want my wife to pick out my clothes, although I'd like to have her with me when buying, for we never know when we may want her to do something like it. It's a wise wife that pleases her husband.

Miss Jeanette Cole, Des Moines, Ia.—I think a woman should dictate to a man as to his dress, because she is not up on men's styles. A man knows best what men should wear; a woman should wear what she always wished to consult him.

R. P. Kelley, 240 Windsor avenue, salesman—My wife has often asked me to give her my opinion about her clothes. A good many times she has said she wanted me to please me, and for that reason she always wished to consult him.

E. V. Johnson, 1147 North Francisco avenue—I think that they should talk it over together, but the final decision should not be left to him. In other words, I think it wise for a wife to ask her husband concerning her clothes, and then to follow her own instincts.

A valley of objections halted his answer.

Mr. Alsleibach's story corroborated that of Mrs. Alsleibach.

"Did you see the money given to Mr. Kane?"

"No—but it was given to him," Mr. Alsleibach answered.

"How do you know if you didn't see it passed?"

More objections stopped his answer.</p

BY CAROLINE KRUM.

Even if your heart is stony and your outlook on life bleak and oversophisticated, you'll agree that this is an adorable picture. I don't want to give away the story, because you'll enjoy seeing it for yourselves. But I will tell you a little about the characters. First there's a wee slip of a maiden, Irish and yellow-haired, whose main interest in life is a crippled little brother. They live with a fat, drowsy aunt and a drunken uncle on the top floor of a tenement building, under a roof that is easy to reach, and where the air is fresh and plentiful.

Then there is a big, good-looking artist with a motherless little daughter who lives in an bungalow apartment on the adjoining roof. A good setting for romance, isn't it, way up on top of New York?

This is the last picture Mr. Taylor directed, and it is beautifully done. In the toy department where Hilda works you can almost feel the elbows of the night-before-Christmas crowd. In the stuffy tenement kitchen, the smell of cooking seems to exude from the screen. And off on the roof the snowflakes carry your cheeks with a cool softness that is almost real.

You will find splendid acting and photography if you see the picture. You will laugh, and there will be moments when there is a catch in your throat. And you will come away with the feeling that the world isn't such a bad old place after all.

CLOSEUPS

Pots and pans shine when Old Dutch is around

Just think what Old Dutch Cleanser is and how it works, and you'll understand why it saves you so much effort and time and money. It cleans effectively because it is a natural cleansing substance composed of soft, flat, flaky particles.

Avoid hard, gritty cleaners; the sharp, chunky particles scratch the surface; dull the finish; make cleaning difficult. Old Dutch being soft, thin flakes gives you many more cleaning units for your money, and makes cleaning safe and easy.

Old Dutch removes the dirt, not the surface. Use it regularly and you won't have to wear yourself out scouring things clean. You'll have everything spotless.

Use Old Dutch—

Cream Jersey Frock with Black Jersey Bolero

by Criminal Lawyer

NEW YORK.—[Special Correspondence.]—Walking through the Grand Central station the other day a woman in a blue Polart twill frock with lingerie frills attracted the attention of those passersby on the lookout for the smartly dressed. It was not, however, the twill frock which claimed this attention, for one only noticed that after a scrutiny of the ornament which hung from a narrow black ribbon around her neck.

This consisted of a black onyx cabochon on which stood out a frosty design of six stars. The design was a basket handle with floral ends and one represented it as a favorite pattern of the second empire jewelry.

It is to this jewelry that we now often turn for inspiration, and sashings, cabochons, and other ornaments record the flight of our fancy.

This is merely an introduction to the statement that ours is an age of the accessory in which the simple frock often plays the humble part of background. Yet even in this age, we are bound to remark anything so charmingly unusual as this cream jersey afternoon model with its bolero of black jersey embroidered in red, blue, and yellow. The cash is lined with black.

Following is a card received from my little sister up in the country in a vacation: "Dear Martin, I am having a fine time. I arrived safe and hope to arrive the same way going home. Love from Gertrude." M. R.

Anita had a new dress which continued to pull up and show her petticoats.

Annoyed by this the child said, "Mother, can't you fix this dress; it certainly doesn't behave well."

On Holding One's Tongue.
I was one of the guests at a large theater party given by one of my best friends.

As we entered the theater I remarked just to be conversational, "The last time I was in this house I had to sit in a box and it was dreadful. I couldn't see a thing."

"That's too bad," my hostess replied as she led me into a box. L. R.

Putting Her at Ease.

We were being entertained at dinner at the home of a friend who had prepared a most delectable meal.

Her dessers had failed and she had substituted prune whip for which she made apology.

I said: "There is nothing we like better—whatever I haven't much to eat for a meal I serve prune whip and our family think they had a fine dinner."

DAILY HOROSCOPE

Doris Blake Says:

TODAY IS LUCKY FOR THE LEVEL HEADED.

While today promises to be a lively and interesting day, according to planetary configuration, yet it may call for careful and skillful administration of affairs, both business and social. The disposition may lean toward enterprise and quick action, and it will be well to be on the lookout for the menace of defeat through fraud, misrepresentation, or slander. Those whose birthday it is have the augury of a doubtful anniversary, and should be on guard against deception and fraud. Sorrow in your domestic circle may be encouraged, and you are advised to guard against radical changes. You have the faculty of looking out for yourself, and know how to court favors by which you profit. You have a vein of mirth, giddy humor, and say witty and brilliant things, but your wit is inclined to be caustic and biting. You are determined, and industriously work to gain your ends.

Better to Forget.

"Dear Miss Blake:—I am 17 years of age and in love with a boy three years my senior, but had to give him up on account of difference in religion as my parents would not allow me to go with him. I had not seen or heard from him for about six weeks when he called one day at the house during my absence. I called him on my way to work. Now does Miss Blake, would you advise trying to get in touch with him again as I care for him a great deal?"

Hub Erns.

Considering your youth and the parental objections and everything, don't you think dear, it would be much wiser for you to discontinue the friendship now? I do!

He May Never Walk Again.
I have often read your column, and now I am sending in my appeal, for I feel sure some one of your many readers will help me as others have been helped. If some kind reader has a wheel chair I will appreciate it, as my circumstances will not permit me to purchase one. H. G. R.

The seven soft wheat states had 1,415,000,000 bu, of which were raised 114,000,000 bu, the total gain of the largest states for the month was 120,000,000 bu, and was 51,000,000 bu over last year. Oats yields were increased 44,000,000 bu over the indicated crop in July and the crop is 1,251,000,000 bu, or 30,000,000 bu more than last year. Iowa and Illinois, the big oats states, have 193,000,000 bu, against 275,000,000 bu last year.

Total supplies of oats for the season based on the government report plus the farm reserves of 73,000,000 bu, or 100,000,000 bu more than last year, and farm inventories in 1921 were 161,000,000 bu, and the average is 75,000,000 bu.

Oats is the second largest crop on record, actually 460,000,000 bu. There are also large crops of barley, hay and potatoes especially the latter, it being the second largest ever raised.

NEWS OF THE CROPS

Breeding of wheat from Brandon, Man., to the Saskatchewan line is quite general, according to George H. Smith, of St. Paul, Alberta & Co. from Carlton, Minn. Southern Alberta has the best crop in the rain belt, while the prairie wheatman is generally heavy, but crop will not mature for another week.

One expert, R. W. Kinnon, says it is cut for harvesting to find barley in flower in the Canadian northeast, but the grain conditions are favorable. Harvest will be on the Prairies, probably later, in two weeks with favorable weather.

The New York Times.

New York, Aug. 8.—[Special]—The news of today, with a bearing on the urgent problems of the moment, was sufficiently confusing to account for the uncertain movement of the markets; yet, so far as it foreshadowed probabilities in the labor difficulties, it could not be described as unfavorable.

However much the recent shifting phases of the railway shopmen's strike may have obscured the coal strike in immediate public interest, the coal strike has remained the key to the situation, and it was in that controversy that today's news was distinctly reassuring.

Misgiving Over Rail Confab.

Apparently the calling of a conference of all the railway brotherhoods for Friday caused some misgiving. This is a result of the fact that which has been decided ever since the deadlock in the way mechanized strike began, over a conceivable "sympathetic demonstration" by the rest of the railway employees.

The coupling of this call with the statement that its purpose was "to avert the impending calamity of a collapse in transportation" does not clearly define what the union leaders have in mind, but it is hardly the language which would describe a threatened strike. This new factor in the situation had its influence on financial sentiment, however; and undoubtedly did the evidence of dissatisfaction among both managers and striking shopmen with the White House proposal to refer to the railway labor board the question of restoring "seniority" privi-

Stock Market Irregular.

This sense of perplexity found expression in the days irregular reaction on the stock exchange. Such declines as occurred were in most cases only fractional, however, and when they ran a point or more, the stocks affected were the industrial shares, which have been generally advanced in the recent market.

Indications of foreign exchange rates, which went somewhat lower, probably reflected perplexity over the reparations conference proposals, similar to that occasioned in the railway controversy.

The bond market continued its upward tendency today. There was considerable strength shown by railroad obligations. Changes in the foreign government list were decidedly mixed. Liberty bonds were soft and not very active.

Son Succeeds Father as Kenwood Bank President

Charles E. Ford, son of the late Charles H. Ford, was elected president of the Kenwood National Bank to succeed his father yesterday. Emil C. Weston was elected to the board of directors, which now consists of A. K. Brown, George Gull, J. W. Sherman, Eugene E. Ford, and Robert R. Levy. The election took place in the bank at 47th street and Grand boulevard.

U.S. REPORTS HEAVY SLUMP IN FOREIGN TRADE

BY O. N. MATHER.

The decline in Europe's purchasing power primarily and a somewhat lower prices secondarily had a rather grave effect on America's export trade in the last year. Incidentally, there could hardly be a better illustration of both the futility of currency inflation and its adverse effect even on countries of sound money.

European currency inflation has enabled the purchase of less rather than more commodities, thereby preventing Europe to a degree from purchasing needed supplies and this country from sending its surplus.

Exports of American raw materials, products and manufactures slumped sharply during the fiscal year ended June 30, according to foreign trade reports issued by the commerce department yesterday.

Raw Material Exports.

Exports of raw materials totaled $26,000,000, compared with $128,000,000 during the previous year. Imports amounted to $90,000,000, against $100,000,000 in the preceding year. Exports of foodstuffs declined during the year totalled $1,144,000,000, compared with $1,758,000,000 in 1921. Imports amounted to $84,000,000, against $104,000,000 in the previous year. Manufactured goods exported totalled $1,622,000,000, compared with $2,320,000,000, against $1,387,000,000 in the preceding year.

Taking these three trade divisions together, our exports for the last fiscal year show a decline of 42 per cent compared with the previous period, while our imports show a decrease of about 10 per cent. The greatest slump in our exports was in manufactures, which dropped more than 50 per cent.

Pian Hago Oil Stores.

Following the recent drastic reductions in the price of crude oil and during the present period of heavy production, the new refining companies are preparing to store as much oil as possible. In fact, the companies are anticipating some decline in production and consequent reduction in the price of refined products.

The Midwest Refining company, operating subsidiary of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana, has placed orders for storage tanks with a total capacity of 4,000,000 barrels of crude oil to be located at Casper, Wyo. Officials of the company stated this additional storage capacity will be greater than the present total capacity of all storage in the Rocky mountain district. In addition, storage capacity of gasoline and naphtha will be increased by 1,200,000 barrels.

This double increase will permit larger flows of crude oil from the Salt Creek field.

PRODUCE MARKETS

Notices not an increased demand, with general stock 15c and bulk and sacked stock 20c higher. Fresh eggs were up 10c and 15c and 20c were on team trade.

Fresh eggs were in fair request. Gold storage stocks showed a 25c increase. Live market chickens declined 5c and broilers advanced 5c.

Live market chickens stocks of butter are 20,000,000 more than last year. Offerings were 1lb per head, the demand, and a weaker market.

Gold storage stocks of butter declined 4c/lb.
